THE AMOUNT OF MONEY INFOLYED IS THE GENERAL PENSION BILL.

WASHINGTON, May 13 .- In the Senate to day a bill was passed authorizing the Secretary the total college of the sun occurring on Aug. 29, 1886, on the west coast of Africa. The bill appropriates $10,000 for the purpose.

A bill was also passed providing that marble busts of those who have been Vice-Presidents of the United States may from time to time be placed in vacant niches of the Senate Chamber. The general Pension bill was then placed before the Senate. Mr. Blair (Rep., N. H.) said he did not think the number of persons to be added to the pension roll under this bill would

Even the personal opinion Biair upon it was admittedly indefinite. of Mr. Blair upon it was admittedly indefinite, and the Senate could not say whether the amount called for by the bill would be $25,000,000. Tobody denied that the men who defended the flar were entitled to reward; least of all would that be denied by the men who had opposed them; but it did not follow that every other obligation should be ignored, or that we should be unmindful of the rights of the vest number of people in this country who were not soldiers. Mr. Berry thought it time to call a hait. He did not believe the Union soldiers wanted this bill. As a rule they were mon able to take care of themselves. He judged of the Union soldiers by their opponents in saying that he did not believe they wanted this bill. The soldiers of the South, he said, returned from the war to find only lone chimneys standing to mark the place where happy homes had stood. Yet those soldiers had worked their way out of their difficulties. He had never known an Arkansas soldier to beg for broad or become dependent on the public for support. He (Mr. Berry) was opposed to the bill—not that he is not as loyal a citizen and as proud of his American citizenship and of his country as the men that had followed Gen. Grant, but because the condition of the soldiers did not demand it, and the condition of the people and their finances did not warrant it.

Mr. Logan said he nover heard an argument and the Senate could not say whether the

Mr. Logan said be nover heard an argument about the expense involved in doing justice to the solidiers without experiencing a cold chill. He would at the proper time move that no pension paid to any soldier should be less than $8. We had some pensions of $1 and $2 a month. Mr. Teller (Rep., Col.) in the proped to say that there were over 26,000 $2 a month pensions. Mr. Logan—What a magranimous pension! Great God. Mr. President, is not this robbery? Is not this destroying the peace of the people of this country? It is no wonder that my friend from Arkansas (Mr. Berry) was alarmed lest the Democratic party would be destroyed if pension bills should pass.

Mr. Logan suggested that the best way for the Democratic party would be destroyed if pension bills should pass.

Mr. Logan suggested that the best way for the Democratic party would be destroyed if pension bills should pass.

Mr. Logan suggested that the best way for the Democrate to keep in power was to support deserving pension bills.

The Senate then went into executive session, and when the doors were reopened adjourced. In the House the Chinese Indemnity joint resolution was debated until the expiration of the morning hour. The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the Diplomatic and Consular Appropriation bill.

Mr. McCreary (Dem., Ky.) heartly supported the measure, and argued that the United States, the grand agricultural empire of the world, should elevate the Department of Agriculture about the other executive depart-should elevate the Department of Agriculture to the dignity of the other executive departments of the Government.

Mr. Breckinridge (Dem. Ky.) opposed the bill. To make the Commissioner of Agriculture a Cabinet officer, to give him an assistant secretary with nothing whatever to do, to increase the expenditures of the department, would neither dignify agriculture nor lighten the burden upon its shoulders. It was the heavy burden of taxation which kept the agricultural industry from moving on. All agriculture wanted was a free unrestricted, unburdened chance in the great battle of life. [Applause.]

Mr. Weaver of Iowa favored the bill, which would give labor a status which it had not yet enjoyed. Labor was organizing for a great civil contest with monopely, and it had a right to be heard in every council that might pass upon its condition, and upon the meed of power and respect that must be given to it.

The committee then rose and the House at once adjourned.

NOT GUILTY BY REASON OF INSANITY.

Mrs. O'Nell Acquitted of the Murder of her Husband's Aunt, Betty Meefe.

POTTSVILLE, May 13 -The verdict in the Sallie O'Neil homicide case was rendered at noon to-day, after about half an hour's deliberation by the jury. Judge Greene, in charging the jury, used Judge Ludlow's charge in the celebrated Sayre case in Philadelphia in explaining insanity and criminal irresponsibility. He cautioned the jury to carefully draw the line in this case between insanity arising from a diseased mind, such as the defence claimed, and insanity caused by intoxication, as maintained by the Commonwealth. In answer to a point submitted by the defence to the effect that it is not necessary that the jury should be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt the defendant was insane at the time the act was committed, his Honor, while affirming the proposition, qualified it by asying that if the defendant allege insanity as an excuse, she must provo it by fairly preponderating evidence, and, falling in this, the presumption of sanity, and therefore of responsibility, remains. He instructed the jury that there was but one of two verdicts to render—guilty of murder in the second degree or not guilty by reason of insanity. The jury accepted the alternative verdict. When it was announced Mrs. O'Neil had her handkerchief rolled up in a ball and with it in her right hand was smoothing her hair. Not a muscle moved when the worldet was announced, and at no time did she exhibit the slightest degree of feeling. She was remanded to the jail for the present, but will be sent to the State Lunatic Asylum at Harrisburg.

Mrs. O'Neil killed her husband's aunt, Betty Keefe, while in a fronzy after returning from a christening, where she had been drinking. She had previously conceived the notion that Betty had placed a seell upon her which made her childless, and that she had had improper relations with her husband. to a point submitted by the defence to the

Queer Story that is Vouched for by a Pertland Newspaper. PORTLAND, Me., May 13 .- The Espress of this afternoon vouches for the following story, and promises to give names and additional details in a day or two:

"For many years there lived in this city a man whose name was a household word with our citizens. He was a member of a noble proserved to be honored. He lived an honored active, faithful, most devoted Christian life, and he died a death that was worthy the man. He was laid to rest by his friends and family, and was followed to the grave by many who had been aided and assisted by the good man in life. A stately monument marks his last resting place, and his memory is still held in high honor and respect. Last week his son was walking down Congress street one evening, and, when almost opposite the First Parish Church, he looked looking figure. He was startled at the close resemblance to his departed father, and quickened his walk. In front of the City Hall, where the electric light makes it as bright as day, the man shead stopped and turned about. The two stood face to face, and each knew the other. The heart of the son almost stopped beating. He saw his father—not a shadow, but as he was when alive.

The heart of the son almost stopped beating. He saw his father—not a shadow, but as he was whon alive.

"Father? he said.
"Yes, don't be alraid. was the reply of the parent, as he shook the hand of his son and walked with him down the street.

"The two who had so strangely met walked together for a long time. We cannot to-day give the conversation, but not the shadow of a doubt existed in the mind of the son in regard to the one fact—his companion was no other than his own father, as of old. He was caim, confident, as of old, loving, and interested in those near and dear to him. What message the father brought to the son from beyond the confines of the grave we do not know, but if there is to be confidence put in human tostimony, in tostimony that would be accepted without hesitation in a court of law, then it must be believed that a man who has for years rested in his grave, or is so believed to have rested, has appeared and been seen by those who knew him, for we are told that to the testimony of his son is to be added other evidences of an equally strong character.

"If the man who appeared in thus city last week was alive, needing three meals a day like the rest of us, and interested in human affairs, then there must be one of the best local sensations ever heard of. If, on the other hand, aspirit specared, if the soul of the departed resumed its discarded body, or if, in the likeness of the temporal body, the spiritual body was developed, then a mighty boom has been given to spiritualism. We have only stated the facts in the case."

A PRCULIAR TRIAL.

Court Obtained by a Crippled Girl. ARIEL, Pa., May 13 .- A peculiar case was ty courts. Emma Cook of this township, a young woman, but so bent, crippled, and deformed that she cannot stand erect or walk, brought suit against Albert Wetherill, whom she charged with betrayal under promise of child. Wetherill is a deaf mute. He is unable to read or write, and does not understand the deaf and dumb alphabet. He has a peculiar sign language of his own, to interpret which J. T. Stocker, a neighbor of Wetherill's and one of the jurymen in the case, was selected by the

T. Stocker, a neighbor of Wetherill's and one of the jurymen is the case, was selected by the court. In swearing Wetherill, Stocker took the Bible in his left hand, tapped it with his right, and pointed upward. He then selzed himself by the throat with his right hand, shook his head emphatically, and pointed downward, after which he kissed the tips of his fingers and laid them on the Bible. Wetherill nodded assent to all the signs.

Stocker explained to the Court that he had told Wetherill by tapping on the Bible and pointing upward that he was expected to tell the truth as a witness, for God saw him. Taking hold of the throat was Wetherill's sign for a lie, and in doing so, shaking his head and pointing down. Stocker indicated to the mute that he must not lie or he would go to hell.

Wetherill emphatically denied the charge made by the crippied complainant, but the evidence was so strong against him that his counsel did not present his case to the jury. A verdict of guilty was rendered. Judge Seelsy sentenced Wetherill to pay the costs of the prosecution, a fine of $1, and $52 a year to Miss Cook for seven years, and to give bonds for the performance of the sentence. When the sentence was interpreted to Wetherill he demonstrated emphatically that he would not accept it, and making a lattice wall of his fingers placed them before his eyes and looked through them, and then gave his right arm a wilds sweep.

He brought home a bottle of liquor a day or so before the murder, and on Christmas Eve asked Join Hurlailon to come in and have a drink with him. On getting the bottle he found that some of its contents were missing. He asked his wife what had become of it. She told him that she had given a neighbor some of the liquor. Galvin began quarrelling with his wife because she had given away the liquor, and he would not be pacified. He son and daughter loft the house to escape the scene. As the daughter got on the porch she heard her mother call to her and ask her to wait for her, as she wanted to go with her. The daughter turned around and saw her father aiming at her mother with a gun. The next instant he fired, and her mother fell to the floor, and died in a short time. The evidence that convicted Galvin was given by his own children and a grandchild. He was entirely friendless in court. A stay of proceedings has been granted, pending argument for a new trial.

A Child Found Dead Beelde ite Drunken

Mother. BRIDGEPORT. May 13.—Mamle Madden, 8 years old, was found dead at her home on Railroad avenue on Monday night by neighbors. She was lying by the side of her mother, who was beastly intoxicated, and the body was cold. Mrs. Thomas Madden, the mother, was too druk to be aroused. Medical Examiner Downs after investigation, believed there had been foul play, and so informed Coroner Holt. The Coroner visited the house, and, finding several marks about the throat of the child, ordered a post-mortem. To-day it was learned that contusions of the brain and bruises on the neck had induced the Coroner to summon witnesses for examination. The child's stomach was entirely empty. It is believed that the girl had brea abused and neglected, and that death was the result of starvation or criminal treatment at the hands of her drunken mother. No report from the Coroner will be rendered until to-morrow. the side of her mother, who was beastly intoxicated

FOUND SITTING IN HEB TROUBERS MAK-ING HERBELF A GOWN.

She to 17 and Protty-Ran Away from Syra ence Bisguised as a Boy, and Circulated in this City and New Jorsey in the Same Big. Amelia Eckert, a pretty girl of 17, with a round full face and sparkling black eyes, and dark hair cut very close, was a prisoner at Jef-ferson Market yesterday. Bhe wore a close-fit-ting black cloth sacque, blue-serge dress, and a jaunty little bonnet. Adam Dresse, a brewer of Syracuse, who was once employed by Ringler in this city, hired Amelia as a servant a year ago. She did her work well, was modest and well behaved, but on the night of May 3 last she ran away, taking with her two gold watches, several small articles of silver, and

The Syracuse police traced Amelia to Liverpool, an adjacent village, and learned that there she had had her long dark hair clipped as close as possible to the scalp, and that she had left the village in a suit of boy's clothes and a Derhy hat, which she had borrowed from a boy of her sequaintance. To further disquise herself when she took a train for New York she wore a pair of gold-rimmed glasses.

Detective Sergeants Liston and Hogan were asked to look for her. They found that she had been around this clip in her boy's clothes of mixed tweed, and that after jawning several articles of jewelry with Bowory pawn-brokers and buying a brand new serge suit of boy's clothes she had gone to Woodside, N. J. The detectives followed her there, and thence to Scranton, where they lost her, but learned that a Mrs. Caragal, who lives at 415 East Eighteenth street, in this city, is her aunt. This house the detectives watched night after night, but were not satisfied that Amelia was there until yesterday afternoon, when they called on Mrs. Caragal, and found Amelia, sitting in her trousers and shirtslowers, finishing a new gown. It was the gown she wore to court, and she had not had on skirts before since she left Syracuse.

She was surprised when she learned that Liston and Hogan were detectives, but in a moment recovered herself, and said, smilingly: "I will be ready to go to court with you as soon as I have put on my new dress."

The girl was anxious to know how much the detectives knew about her, and was surprised when told how closely they had followed her. She would not talk about the larceny for which she was arrested, but laughingly said, "I never wore glasses before in my life, and put through them." She said that she was born in Newark, and had friends living there now; she would not say how she had spent her time in Woodside and Scranton.

"Funny, though," she added, "that nobody I met suspected that I was a girl, I must have made a pretty boy, don't you think?" The detectives agreed with her. She was perfectly unconcerned when Justice Welde remanded her, and shrugged her shoulders when she was aske there she had had her long dark hair clipped as close as possible to the scalp, and that she asked about a number of pawn tickets found in her pockets.

In a cell near the girl's, at Police Headquarters last night, was Andrew Cratt, a young German, who drives one of Ringler's beer wagons. He is held nominally as a suspicious person. He got into this trouble through being a friend of the dashing Amelia. The detectives are reticent about his standing in the case, whether he is thought to know something that will assist in the recovery of the property, or whether he is to be used to get some information in that direction from the girl. She believes in him as a friend, and also thinks that he is going to marry her. But the detectives say that she is deceived, and that he was married to another woman no longer ago than last Sunday.

BARTLEY CAMPBELL SHUT UP. Shooting People.

Bartley Campbell has at length been taken wife, her lawyer, Winthrop Parker; Ernest Harvier, receiver of the Fourteenth Street Theatre, and several friends had a consultation under restraint until he became better. On Wednesday night Mr. Parker swore out a warrant at Yorkville Court, charging Campbell with being irresponsible and likely to do harm to himself and others.

Court Officer O'Connor coaxed Campbell to

Went There Only when They Wanted a Bath. The Board of Managers of the Sanitary Aid Society for the Tenth ward met at room 406 in the Mutua Life building yesterday to consider the future of the College of the City of New York. Its aim was to start cheap, clean lodging houses in the Tenth ward. They started one in Doyers street to accommodate ninety men. Every lodger had to take a bath. The lease expired May 1, and Robert Kerr, the landlord, who keeps the lodging house next door, turned off the water. The managers of the society insisted that they had given notice to Mr. Kerr said Kerr that they still wanted the building. Mr. Kerr said they hadn't and he wanted them to get out. The managers got an injunction from Judge Donohue on Wednesday, and Kerr had to turn the water on again. Mr. Joseph Biumenthal said the prospect for the society was not encouraging. It took seventy-five lodgers a day to make the institution pay. The average had only been sixty-eight. It is said that the cheap lodgers go there only when they want a bath. The breakfasts are five cents and the dinners ten cents.

It was decided to continue the work of the society, and a committee was appointed to confer with other similar societies with view to a consolidation. Among the managers of the society are Nathan Sigur, the Rev. Dr. Wendes. Benj. F. Peixotto, E. R. A. Seligman, and Killsen Van Reusselser. ouse next door, turned off the water. The managers of Fortions of the Old Testament, the report says, will be printed at Honolulu this year. Mrs. Robertson's version of the New Testament in Muskokee is well advanced. It justel's translation of the Gospel of Luke in Corean is ready for publication. Fortions of the Old Testament have been prepared in the Shanghai colloquial, as well as a version of the Proverbs in Siamesse. The revision of the modern Syriac Old Testament is also far advanced. The colporieur work of the society is encouraging, 60,000 homes having been supplied with Bibles during the year. The salaries and expenses of colporteurs, including freight on books, amounted to $48,553,28. During the year the society printed 1,437,440 Bibles and New Testaments.

MOST DOESN'T LIKE THE TOMRS.

Herr Most looked as dapper as a Wall street broker as he emerged from his Tombs cell yesterday puffing smoke from a cigar stuck in a long holder. He had just left a barber's hands, and spoke hopefully of his chances of getting out of jail.

"Two or three business men will offer to go on my bond to-morrow." he said, in an offhand way. "I will not mention their names because it might hurt their trade. I write for the Freiheit in my cell. It would be a pity for the paper to subside because I'm locked up. Imprisonment doesn't bother me. I've had too much of it. I guess I've been locked up in a dozen prisons in Europe, but I never before was in such a little cell as this one here. The prison system of Europe is far ahead of this in the United States.

"I think," said the Anarchist after a few more puffs, "that we will get out an extra of the Freiheit on Saturday. I'll have in a long article about my arrest, contradicting all the lies of the police. They make much fun of me, but I will show them that their noise will do them no good."

Most was not taken to court yesterday. In the General Sessions Lawyer Howe filed a demurrer to the second count of the indictment against the Anarchist. The first count accused Most of participating in an unlawful assembly, and the second, framed under section 675 of the Code, accuses him of committing "acts endangering the public peace." The demurrer to this count says that the facts stated in the indictment do not constitute an offence or crime. Recorder Smyth reserved his decision. because it might hurt their trade. I write for Several witnesses testified for plaintiff as to the ser-vices rendered and their value, and then Gen. Benjamir F. Butler, Miss Hoyt's counsel, opened for the defence claiming that Dr. Hannan was never engaged by his diest, but that she was willing to pay $50 for what he Jacob Selbert, a wealthy speculator of Brookstreet jail under an order made by Judge Clement of the City Court fining him $75 and committing him for thirty days for violating an injunction forbidding him to molest his wife, who resides at $61 Bedford avenue. While Deputy Sheriff Bartow was waiting for him at Mrs. Seibert's residence, Seibert forcet his way in at the parior window and found himself a prisoner. On his way to the jail he begged Deputy Bartow to allow him to speak to a friend who keeps a store in Skiliman street and De Kaih avenue. Mr. Bartow good-naturedly permitted him to do so, but he skipped through the back door. Fortunately, the deputy caught a glimpse of him burrying down De Kaih avenue and gave chase. After a live-hundred-yards run Seibert was captured.

The Organist had to Sue for his Pay.

Pastor Andreae of the St. John's German Evangelical Lutheran Church of Jersey City, with the members of the church consistory, were in Judge Ranmembers of the church consistory, were in Judge Randolph's court yesterday. They were defeudants in a suit brought by William Horn, a former organist in the church, for the recovery of $200 aliesed to be due for services rendered. When counsel for Organist Horn called for the minute book of the consistory to show how long the plaintiff had served, it was not produced. Judge Randolph said that the book ought to be produced if it was in the court room. Then Pastor Andreae took the book from under the chair on which he was sitting and handed it to the Court. Judge Randolph gaves verdict for the plaintiff for $3.

Joseph Piper Kills Himself.

Joseph Piper, a German eigarmaker, had a quarrel with his wife at their home, 137 Mulberry street, Newark, on Monday morning last, and at night be left the house, saying that he would never return. Yester-day morning at 2 o'clock Piper was found unconscious on the sidewalk at Coles and Second streets, Jersey City. He had taken opium. He died at the City Hopital without having recovered consciousness. Two jetters were found upon him. One was from a daughter, it told bin he had disgraced his family and that he had better not return to them. The other letter was addressed to his wife. It accused her of infidelity, but was very affectionats. Piper was 45 years old.

Mrs. McInten Went Around to See About It. Mrs. Mary Molntee was committed to the Island for three months yesterday for disturbing the quiet of Grammar School 72, 105th street and Lexington avenue. Two of her children, who are pupils in the school, were absent recently, and when they went there again they were lowered a grade. Mrs. Mointee went sround to see about it on Tucadey, and expressed her self freely and loudy to Miss Pardee, the principal, and Miss Meredith, her assistant. Janitor Thatcher tried to put her out, and she struck him. She was taken to the Hariem Court on a warrant.

Meeting of the Ningara Park Commissioners At a meeting of the Niagara Park Commis-sioners at 239 Brondway yesterday, Commissioners Dorshelmer, Greene, and Anderson were present. The Secretary amounced that 1,000 copies of the Commissioners' amount report to the Legislature had been printed. The amount in the Commissioners' hands is $12,700. A discussion of the simbellishing of Niagara Park was begun, but was finally postponed to a special meeting of the Commissioners to be held on June 2 at Niagara.

Hollin Squire Sauford Astray.

A well-dressed man approached a conductor of a Harlem freight train at Mt. Vernon on Wednesday and said: "You must take me out of the State immediately. They are after me and are going to kill me."
He was taken before Justice Stillman at White Plains, where he said he unne was Boilin Squire Banford, and that he lived in New Britain, Conu. He would give in explanation of his conduct. He was held for examination as to his sanity.

Marien Ray to Get bor Husband's Fatate. Letters of administration were issued yester-day by Surrogate Rollins to Mrs. Marken Ray, whose husband. Charles A. Ray, detected her in adultary, put a builted into her beautiful face, and then killed himself at their house Medison avenue on Dec. 4 last. The se-tate is valued at $1,000.

Yestorday was the anniversary of the opening of the Brooklyn Bisvated Railroad, and, in defiance of the pitiless rain, every engine ran decked in holiday at-tire. Flags, streamers, and a few of such flowers as were procurable adorned them all.

Mr. Liebert Palls Again. Edward Liobert, dealer in human hair at 319 Cannel street, made an assignment yesterday to Israel Casper. He has foiled several times, the last time in Becomber last for $43,000. A LIVE SHARB IN A BOY'S STOMACH.

He Died of Hemorrhage Seen After it Had Been Palled From His Month. LEWISTON, Me., May 18 .- The almost ineredible story recently printed about the death of a boy near Grand Falls from hemorrhage caused by pulling from his mouth a live snake which had grown to his flesh proves to be literwhich had grown to his mean proves to be merally true. The lad's name was George Murichson, and his age 8 years. He was a bright little fellow, and lived with his parents on a farm about four miles from the town. Early last winter the boy began to set strangely sick. He had a most voracious appetite, and it was impossible for him to get enough to eat. His friends got alarmed about him, and sent for physicians, who began dosing him for worms. As the winter wore on the boy grew worse and worse. One day he felt something crawling up from his atomach into his throat. He almost choked to death, for the crawling feature tried ineffectually to come out by the nasal passage.
In a short time the snake (for such it was) forced his way up the boy's throat and stuck its head out of his mouth. The lad's sister, who was near by, saw the head of the serpent just before it drew back into the boy's mouth. Very soon the anake stuck his head out a second time, and his little sister made a grab at it and pulled from the boy's mouth a live snake fourteen inches lone. It had a visce of flesh attached to its tail nearly as large as a hen's egg.
The boy lived a short time only after the snake was taken from him, dying of violent homorrhage. It is supposed that the boy had gone to sleep in some field, and that the snake had crawled down his throat. The reptile has been preserved in alcohol.
